For

FOREIGN STUDENTS

PROLOGUE

There has never been a language as widely spread and used as the English language. It is the “lingua franca” of the modern world.

Roughly one quarter of the world’s population is already fluent or competent in English – this number is growing everyday.

The phenomenal spread of English in the last 200 years has not just been the result of the British Empire and American economic power, but also a third factor: international technology.

As a result, English is driving the growth of global internet, science, popular music, entertainment and international travel.

This has triggered a globalization of culture – which, in turn has given rise to the need of English competency language of business, communication, higher education, aviation, etc.

In view of this development, competency and proficiency in English language is becoming a requisition and basic qualification for employability.

OBJECTIVES

The English camp program is specifically designed to develop English language competency for foreign students in particular who would like learn English for short-term and intensively. The program fulfills the participants' aim to acquire the basic or elementary, and up to intermediate level of English, depending on the students' needs and the level of English at the time they enter. Special focus will be on daily conversational skills to enable the students to speak and express themselves confidently.
